Why Legal Professionals Recommend AppClose:

Comprehensive Co-Parenting Platform

AppClose facilitates communication between co-parents, whether their usage is voluntary, or court ordered. The App also enables attorneys, guardians ad litem, mental health professionals, and others to monitor co-parent communications and activities.

Court-admissible Records

Any AppClose user may export their own records. In response to a valid subpoena, records may be certified by our business records affidavit.

Extensive Set of Co-Parenting Tools

Real-time Messaging

Co-parents can send individual or group chats within their circle. Each co-parent may also use the app to communicate confidentially with their connected attorney. All messages in AppClose are time-stamped, encrypted for security, unalterable, and permanent, with a historical record of all discussions. Co-parents can view the time and date any message was read; search and export any conversation by date or keyword; and scan, upload, and send documents.

Audio & Video Calling

AppClose facilitates virtual visits. When both parties enable audio and video calling, co-parents can hear, see, and talk to connected parties in real-time. Call records include every attempted, missed, and completed call. Calls are never traced, caller location is never shared, and co-parents' phone numbers are never revealed.

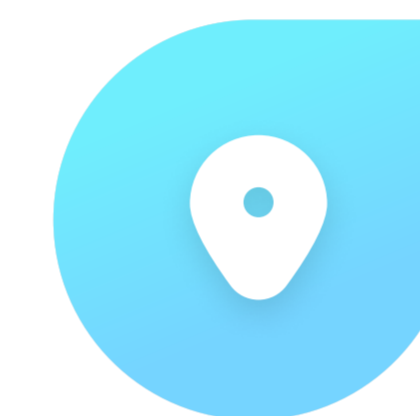

Custody Schedules & Shared Calendars

Co-parents can select from 15 pre-built parenting schedule templates or create their own. They can create child-related events, set reminders, and share them with others. They can also send, discuss, approve, or decline swap days, drop-offs, pick-ups, and other requests. All communication is logged and accessible, as needed.

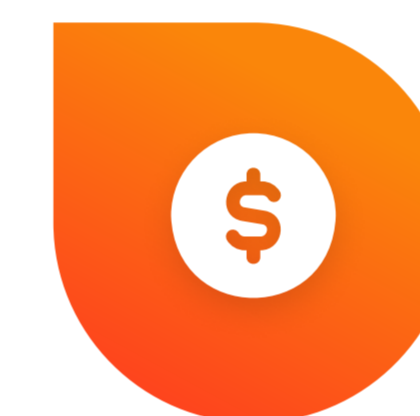

Circles

In AppClose, co-parents can invite an unlimited number of third parties to join their circle. These invitees include attorneys, mediators, guardians ad litem, mental health and other professionals, as well as family members such as grandparents, stepparents, or caretakers. At their discretion, co-parents can securely store important child-related or other information, and can share it with any member of their circle. Third-party invitees can only see what co-parents intentionally share with them.

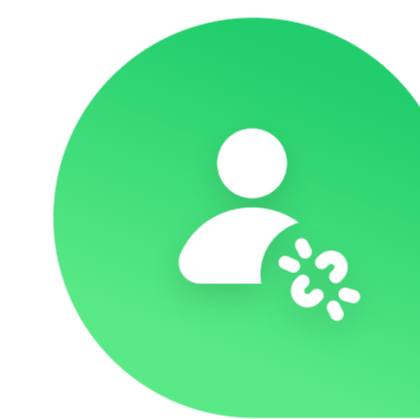

Check-ins

Co-parents can accurately record the time that they arrive or depart any location, such as child pick-ups or drop-offs. Neither co-parent may use this feature to track the other's location.

Expense Log, Reimbursements, and Payments

Co-parents can categorize child-related expenses, attach related documents, submit reimbursement requests, and make or receive payments through ipayou® – a secure, proprietary, payment solution within AppClose.

AppClose Solo

With this unique feature, AppClose users may communicate from AppClose with non-App users via text message or email. This mode allows users to keep an accurate log of all child-related activities, events, and communication attempts, even if the other party does not reply or participate.

Pet management

Co-parents can coordinate pet-related tasks, such as scheduling vet appointments, sharing pet-related expenses, and organizing pet schedule arrangements.

Access to Records

For maximum privacy protection, all information in AppClose is encrypted. A co-parent can access and export their records. Certified business records affidavits can be requested with a subpoena and provided to the court or to the litigants' attorneys.

Advanced Security

Two-Factor Authentication, PIN or biometric lock-screen capabilities, and advanced data encryption ensure personal data is secure and protected.
